This image shows a full page of primary-ruled paper. It features multiple sets of horizontal blue lines, each consisting of a solid top line, a dashed middle line, and a solid bottom line. This format is commonly used for teaching handwriting to young children. In the upper-left portion of the page, the letters "Pw" are printed in a light gray font, serving as a guide for letter formation. The rest of the page is blank, providing ample space for practice.
